- that PDE-approved middle schools increased from 229 in 1979-80 to 231 in the 1980-81 school year.
- a decrease of 2.3 percent in area vocational-technical school enrollments from 82,527 in 1979-80 to 80,643 in 1980-81.
- that 617 public schools produced a total of 146,458 high school graduates in 1980, a drop of 8,984 or 5.8 percent from the 155,442 reported for 1979.
- that 72,995 public high school graduates (1980) applied for admission to a degree-granting institution of higher education, an increase of 12.6 percent over the 64,834 (1979) graduates that applied for admission.
- a decrease of 2.8 percent in the number of graduates enrolling in a college or university, from 62,771 in 1979 to 60,984 in 1980.
- that Pennsylvania's 1980 public high school graduates (146,458) included 49 or 0.03 percent American Indians or Alaskan Natives; 519 or 0.35 percent Asians or Pacific Islanders; 12,744 or 8.70 percent Blacks, not of Hispanic Origin; 951 or 0.65 percent Hispanics; and 132,195 or 90.26 percent Whites, not of Hispanic Origin.

FOREWORD

The series of publications entitled Our Schools Today is designed to provide statistical data and trends relating to basic education in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The "Public Elementary-Secondary School Report" is Number 1 of Volume XX in this series. Other issues in the series, published either annually or biennially, provide data on transportation of students, nonpublic elementary and secondary education, public school buildings, public school professional personnel and public school financial statistics.

Any inquiries relative to these publications, including suggestions for change, should be directed to the Division of Education Statistics, Bureau of Information Systems, Department of Education, 333 Market Street, P. O. Box 911, Harrisburg, PA 17108 (Phone 717-787-2644).

INTRODUCTION

The "Public Elementary-Secondary School Report, 1980-81" presents current enrollment and graduate data for all the public school administrative units in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Included among these administrative units were area vocational-technical schools and the intermediate unit boards which operate special education programs.

There are several tables in this report that classify the enrollment and graduate data into various categories. In addition to these tables, the data are further supported by the use of trend tables for the past decade, graphs and interpretive narrative.

PART I

ENROLLMENTS

Facts concerning enrollments in the public schools of Pennsylvania are contained in Tables 1 through 14 and Figures 1 of this publication.

Pennsylvania's total public school enrollments for 1980-81 were 1,909,292. This represented a drop of 59,509 pupils (3.0 percent) from the 1979-80 figure, and a 19.5 percent decline from the high of 2,370,665 pupils reported in 1971-72. Elementary public school enrollments, which crested at 1,267,059 in 1969-70 have dropped continually to a figure of 940,387 for 1980-81, a decrease of 2.9 percent from the 1979-80 enrollment of 968,325. Comparing the 1980-81 elementary enrollments with the 1979-80 enrollments, nine counties reported increases compared with only three counties reporting increases in 1979-80. This trend should continue until 1985-86 when elementary enrollments are expected to start a general increasing trend.1/

Public school secondary enrollments, which peaked in 1973-74 at 1,137,660 have fallen to their present level of 968,905 reported for the 1980-81 school year, a decline of 3.2 percent over the 1979-80 figure of 1,000,476. Only four counties reported increases in secondary enrollments in the 1980-81 school year over the 1979-80 school year. This continued decrease in secondary enrollments is expected to continue through the 1989-90 school year.1/

A breakdown of the Commonwealth's public school population on a race/ethnic basis shows 1,375 (0.07 percent) listed as American Indians or Alaskan Natives; 14,371 (0.75 percent) as Asians or Pacific Islanders; 237,867 (12.46 percent) as as Blacks, not of Hispanic Origin; 30,850 (1.62 percent) as Hispanics; and 1,624,829 (85.10 percent) as Whites, not of Hispanic Origin.

1/ Projections, Selected Education Statistics for Pennsylvania to 1989-90. Pennsylvania Department of Education, 1980.

Of the 3,734 public schools reported in the Commonwealth for school year 1980-81, 2,368 were classified as elementary, 952 as secondary and 414 as combined. This represents an overall decrease of 1.9 percent in the number of public schools operating in 1980-81 compared with the number operating in 1979-80.

During the past six years, the number of four-year high schools reported has increased steadily from 200 in 1975-76 to 246 in the 1980-81 school year. For the same six-year period, the number of three-year junior high schools has decreased from 227 to 181 and the number of three-year senior high schools have dropped from 157 to 125. The total schools with secondary enrollments went from 1,384 in 1975-76 to 1,366 in 1979-80 and have remained at that level.

For the 1980-81 school year, there were 231 approved middle schools reported, a gain of two over the 229 on last year's file. The number of pupils served by these middle schools stood at 87,906 in 1972-73 and has now reached 158,753 for the current year, 1980-81, an 80.6 percent increase.

A look at the area vocational-technical school data for the 1980-81 school year shows a total enrollment of 80,643 in 79 schools. This is a decrease of 1,884 individuals (2.3 percent) below the 82,527 reported in 78 schools for the 1979-80 school year. The area vocational-technical school enrollments peaked in 1978-79 at 83,641, and in 1974-75 numbered 76,222 in 71 schools. In 1968-69, 9,857 pupils were enrolled in 32 schools.

PART II

CALENDAR, SCHOOL DAY AND SCHEDULING PROCEDURES[1]

Information concerning the length of the school year, the opening and closing dates (for both pupils and teachers) of schools with secondary-level enrollments, the length of the school day in hours and the types of scheduling procedure in these schools is contained in Tables 15 through 19.

Of the 1,308 public schools with secondary enrollments, there are 880 which reported exactly 180 school days scheduled for their pupils while only two schools listed 186 days or more for the pupils. These data also show 266 schools scheduled work for teachers on 185 days while only 57 schools listed 190 or more days for the instructors, down from the 213 schools reported in 1978-79.

Data gathered indicate that 828 (63.3 percent) public schools with secondary enrollments began classes during the week of September 1-5, 1980, and that 408 (38.1 percent) schools planned closing between June 8 and June 12, 1981.

As for the length of the school day, it was reported that most schools were in session from 6.0 to 6.4 hours per day. The 582 schools in this category made up 44.5 percent of the 1,308 schools reporting.

Of the 1,194 schools designating use of regular scheduling procedures, 1,065 (89.2 percent) had either seven or eight periods per day. These data also show 978 (81.9 percent) of them utilized periods of between 40 and 49 minutes each. In the 70 schools reported as using modular scheduling, the modular procedure was employed more ofter at the seventh- and eighth-grade levels.

[1] Due to the unique programs of the intermediate unit operated schools, they have been excluded from this section.

PART III

GRADUATES[1]

Data on the 1980 high school graduates may be found in Tables 20 through 27 and Figure 2. The number of high school graduates reported by Pennsylvania's public schools in 1980 was 146,458. This was a decline of 5.8 percent from the 155,442 graduates reported for 1979. The 1979 graduate figure includes 730 pupils from the intermediate unit operated schools.

A racial/ethnic breakdown of the 1980 graduates reveals 49 (0.03 percent) American Indians or Alaskan Natives; 519 (0.36 percent) Asians or Pacific Islanders; 12,744 (8.70 percent) Blacks, not of Hispanic Origin; 951 (0.65 percent) Hispanics; and 132,195 (90.26 percent) Whites, not of Hispanic Origin.

Of the 146,458 graduates, 72,286 (49.36 percent) were male and 74,172 (50.64 percent) were female. Reported as applicants for admission to a "degree-granting" institution were 35,517 male and 37,478 female graduates.

Of the 1980 graduates from 617 schools, 60,984 enrolled in a college or university (a decline of 1,787 students) and 10,143 chose other schools. The other leading post-high school activities were 10,248 graduates reported as unemployed; 9,079 employed as unskilled laborers; 8,237 working in clerical positions; 7,060 pursuing careers as service workers; 6,508 entered the Armed Services; and 6,110 became sales workers. The post-high school activity of 13,530 graduates was unknown.

While the total number of graduates entering a college or university declined, the percent increased to 41.6 percent for the 1980 graduates compared to the 40.4 percent reported for the 1979 graduates.

[1] The 1980 graduate data do not include information on those students completing their education at a intermediate unit operated school.

PART IV

SELECTED DATA BY ADMINISTRATIVE UNIT

Table 28 contains some of the most frequently requested data items for the various public school administrative units--school districts, intermediate unit offices and area vocational-technical schools. All intermediate unit offices that operated schools are recorded on the first page of the table. Succeeding pages list all school districts and area vocational-technical schools in county order.

The five largest school districts of the Commonwealth, in terms of total enrollment, were Philadelphia (223,889), Pittsburgh (45,704), Allentown (14,487), Erie City (14,258) and Bethlehem Area (12,748). At the same time, the five districts which reported the fewest pupils enrolled were Jenkintown (572), Midland Boro (561), Shanksville-Stonycreek (493), Salisbury-Elk Lick (464) and Austin Area (334).

Figure 3 reveals the distribution of Pennsylvania's public school districts on the basis of their total enrollments. While 76.5 percent of the districts enrolled from 1 to 3,999 pupils each, only 6.4 percent included 8,000 or more pupils each. All other districts fell in the interval reporting from 4,000 to 7,999 pupils each.

The Pennsylvania Department of Education, an equal opportunity employer, will not discriminate in employment, educational programs or activities, based on race, sex, handicap, or because a person is a disabled veteran or a veteran of the Vietnam Era. This policy of non-discrimination extends to all other legally protected classifications. Publication of this policy in this document is in accordance with state and federal laws including Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 503 and 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

HIGHLIGHTS

The 1979-80 data indicate that:

* the total general fund revenue of school districts continued to escalate to a new high of $4,475,997,213, an increase of $298,828,137 or 7.2 percent over the previous year.

* the real estate tax at $1,742,087,993 accounted for 76.3 percent of the total taxes collected for school purposes.

* the median equalized millage for reimbursement under the basic instructional subsidy, as amended by Act 59 (August 1977), payable 1980-81, was 23.1 mills.

* an increase of $20,538,335 brought the Act 511 tax collection to $342,659,074, an increase of 6.4 percent.

* the Act 511 taxes producing the greatest share of revenue were the wage and income tax ($216,437,173), the occupation tax ($46,545,203) and the real estate transfer tax ($39,398,603).

* total general fund expenditures rose to $4,401,252,280 for the public school districts, area vocational-technical schools and special schools of the Commonwealth, an increase of $346,417,839 or 8.5 percent over 1978-79.

* the general fund expenditure for instruction continued its growth to $2,291,210,303 or 52.1 percent of total general fund expenditures, declining for the fifth consecutive year by 0.3 percent from 1978-79.

* the cost of administration at $150,517,883 remained at 3.4 percent of total general fund expenditures.

* the state average expenditure in current and total general fund expenditures per average daily membership for the school districts of the Commonwealth rose from $1,790.20 and $2,013.11 to $2,031.73 and $2,269.72, an increase of 13.5 percent and 12.7 percent respectively.

FOREWORD

The series of publications entitled Our Schools Today is designed to provide statistical data and trends relating to basic education in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The "Public School Financial Statistics Report" is Number 7 of Volume XX in this series. Other issues in the series, published either annually or biennially, provide data on public school elementary and secondary education, transportation of students, nonpublic elementary and secondary education, public school buildings and public school professional personnel.

Any inquiries relative to these publications, including suggestions for change, should be directed to the Division of Education Statistics, Bureau of Information Systems, Department of Education, 333 Market Street, P.O. Box 911, Harrisburg, PA 17108 (Phone 717-787-2644).

INTRODUCTION

The "Public School Financial Statistics Report, 1979-80" is the current financial publication of the Our Schools Today series. Herein is presented detailed information concerning general fund revenue by source of funds and tax collection data of all public school districts; general fund expenditures of school districts, area vocational-technical schools and special schools with per pupil expenditures per average daily membership (ADM) for all school districts operating a complete program of kindergarten and/or grade one through twelve in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the 1979-80 school year. Since the financing of public basic education in Pennsylvania is based upon reimbursement for prior year expenditures, all financial data gathered and published are one year later than that of the other publications of the Our Schools Today series. The data presented in this volume are actual as reported by the individual reporting entities and are shown by the use of tables, graphs and interpretive narrative and are further supported by trend tables for the past decade.

PART I

GENERAL FUND REVENUE

General fund revenue by source of funds for fiscal 1979-80 is presented in Table 1, showing both the dollar amounts and the percents from local, state and federal sources. The revenue from local sources, as the main source of funding for the public schools, continues to grow with an increase for the year of 7.2 percent, closing out the fiscal period at $2,448,454,423. This amount represented 54.7 percent of total general fund revenue. The "other revenue" from local sources increased a robust 35.1 percent in 1979-80, reflecting a substantial increase (53.7 percent) in earnings from investments. Meanwhile local taxes showed a further increase of $105,423,911 or 4.8 percent, giving the greatest strength to the local funding pattern. General fund revenue from state sources for the fiscal period, at 39.7 percent of the total general fund revenue, was a 0.4 percent increase over the previous year. The revenue from federal sources, relatively stable historically as a percent of total general fund revenue, displayed an increase of $16,996,278 or 7.3 percent for the 1979-80 fiscal year to complete the general fund revenue picture.

The revenues reported here are general fund revenues of school districts only, as reported by the districts, and will therefore differ from state appropriations paid or the total revenue picture for basic education in the Commonwealth for a given year.

PART II

SCHOOL DISTRICT TAXES

Tax information for the 505 school districts of the Commonwealth for 1979-80 is shown in Table 2, which lists the actual taxes collected by the school districts as reported on the "Annual Financial Report" (DECO 500), the 1979 market value as certified by the State Tax Equalization Board and the computed and ranked (from high to low) equalized mills as a representation of local effort. Although similar, these data differ from the tax data published in A Measure of Local Effort, 1979-80,[1] in which budgeted data are used with projected 1979 market values.

An increase of $105,423,911 or 4.8 percent boosted the total tax collection for the year to $2,284,015,641. Although the dollar amount of tax collection has continued to escalate, the percent of increase has been declining over the past several years from a high of 11.4 percent in 1976-77 to the present low of 4.8 percent. Of total taxes, the real estate tax (including the public utility realty tax) still remains as the primary source of revenue for the operation of the public schools, producing $1,761,733,691 or 77.2 percent of the total taxes collected and 39.4 percent of total general fund revenue. The Act 511 taxes, levied under the Local Tax Enabling Act of 1965, yielded $342,659,074 or 15.0 percent of total taxes. The front-runners of the Act 511 taxes in the percent of total tax proceeds realized were the wage and income tax, 9.5 percent and the occupation tax, 2.0 percent; while the real estate transfer tax produced 1.7 percent and all other types of Act 511 taxes collectively amounted to 1.8 percent. The special taxes[2] levied by Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, listed with the Act 511 taxes because of their similarity and for statistical convenience, accounted for $79,742,835 or 3.5 percent of total taxes for fiscal 1980. The per capita tax under the school code, the payments in lieu of taxes and the delinquent taxes totaled $99,880,041 or 4.4 percent, to round out the total tax collection for the year.

The value of Table 2 is enhanced by the inclusion of the computed equalized mills (EM), a standard measure of local effort, as mandated by Act 59 (August 1977). This measure is used to obtain the base earned for reimbursement (BER) under the basic instructional subsidy.

1/ Division of Education Statistics, Pennsylvania Department of Education.

2/ Mandated by the Sterling Act for Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania Public School Code of 1949 for Pittsburgh.

PART III

GENERAL FUND EXPENDITURES

Table 3 presents the general fund expenditures by function of all the school districts, area vocational-technical schools and special schools which are mandated to file an "Annual Financial Report" (DECO 500) with the office of the comptroller of the Department of Education. The total general fund expenditures for 1979-80 increased by $336,417,839 or 8.3 percent to a record $4,401,252,280, the highest percent of increase recorded in five years. Capital outlay ($50,768,007) and debt service ($408,379,353) comprised 10.4 percent of total expenditures, establishing current expenditures as $3,942,104,920 or 89.6 percent of the total. Again, as for the past six years, the percent of expenditures for administration ($150,517,883) remained relatively constant at 3.4 percent of the total expenditures, while instruction, at $2,291,210,303, showed a slight decline for the fourth consecutive year. The only functions showing any appreciable change as a percent of total expenditures were pupil transportation (up 0.5 percent) and operation and maintenance of plant (up 0.4 percent).

Table 4 shows per pupil expenditures for selected functions of school districts in average daily membership (ADM) as reported on the "Annual Attendance Report" (DEBE 482) for 1979-80. The expenditures in Table 3 were used in conjunction with the ADMs to compute the per pupil costs of school districts operating a complete program of kindergarten and/or grade 1 through grade 12. In using Table 4 for comparative purposes, caution is advised since some districts spend more than others on programs and services for which there is no per pupil accounting in average daily membership. In addition, a high per pupil cost does not necessarily imply a high cost to the local taxpayer since some programs are financed almost entirely by state or federal funds. The range of current expenditures per ADM was from $1,304.20 to $3,248.47 and of total expenditures from $1,377.18 to $3,620.36 with a median expenditure of $1,769.37 and $2,014.09 respectively. The various functions and the percents of increase in per pupil costs were as follows: administration, 13.3 percent; instruction, 11.9 percent; pupil personnel services, 14.1 percent; operation and maintenance of plant, 17.4 percent; fixed charges, 12.0 percent; transportation, 22.9 percent; all others, 15.2 percent. The per pupil cost for transportation is for pupils enrolled and not for pupils transported.

HIGHLIGHTS

The 1980-81 data indicate:

- a decline of 1.9 percent in the total nonpublic elementary and secondary school enrollments from 399,955 in 1979-80 to 392,402 in 1980-81.
- a decline of 1.8 percent in nonpublic elementary school enrollments from 285,514 in 1979-80 to 280,319 in 1980-81.
- a decrease of 2.1 percent in nonpublic secondary school enrollments from 114,441 in 1979-80 to 112,083 in 1980-81.
- a decrease in the number of nonpublic schools from 1,779 in 1979-80 to 1,757 in 1980-81.
- that of the 1,757 nonpublic schools, 1,288 were elementary schools, 176 were secondary and 293 were combined elementary-secondary.
- that the Roman Catholic Church operated 913 schools or 52.0 percent of the nonpublic schools, and that 80.2 percent of the nonpublic pupils or 314,759 were enrolled in these schools.
- that the enrollment in Roman Catholic schools declined by 2.7 percent from 323,452 pupils in 1979-80 to 314,759 pupils in 1980-81.
- that the enrollment in nonpublic non-Catholic schools increased 1.5 percent from 76,503 pupils in 1979-80 to 77,643 pupils in 1980-81.
- that a total of 20,264.9 full-time equivalent teachers staffed the 1,757 nonpublic elementary, secondary and combined schools.
- that 17.0 percent of the 2,301,694 elementary and secondary school children in the Commonwealth were enrolled in nonpublic schools.
- that 62.5 percent of the 24,188 nonpublic secondary school graduates were reported as attending degree-granting institutions.

FOREWORD

The series of publications entitled Our Schools Today is designed to provide statistical data and trends relating to basic education in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The "Nonpublic Elementary-Secondary School Report" is Number 4 of Volume XX in this series. Other issues in the series, published either annually or biennially, provide data on public elementary and secondary education, transportation of students, nonpublic elementary and secondary education, public school buildings, public school professional personnel and public school financial statistics.

Any inquiries relative to these publications, including suggestions for change, should be directed to the Division of Education Statistics, Bureau of Information Systems, Department of Education, 333 Market Street, P.O. Box 911, Harrisburg, PA 17108 (Phone 717-787-2644).

INTRODUCTION

The "Nonpublic Elementary-Secondary School Report, 1980-81" presents current nonpublic enrollment and graduate data for all cooperating nonpublic schools in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Included among these nonpublic schools are sectarian and nonsectarian schools that operate an educational program that consists of varying organizational arrangements of kindergarten through grade 12, including elementary exceptional, secondary exceptional and post-graduate programs.

There are several tables in this report that classify the enrollment and graduate data into various categories. In addition to the tables, the data are further supported by the use of trend tables for the past decade, graphs and interpretive narrative.

PART I

HISTORICAL SUMMARY

Nonpublic schools are defined as schools which are privately controlled by a nonpublic entity and are financed from sources other than public taxation. Included are parochial schools; privately operated schools providing education equivalent to that of the public elementary and secondary schools for students who are deaf, blind, mentally retarded, or who have other types of physical or mental exceptionality; private college preparatory schools; and military academies.

Data in this report reflect the status of nonpublic elementary and secondary schools in the 67 counties of the Commonwealth as of the fall of 1980. While the survey was intended to cover the entire universe, there was a significant nonresponse rate from non-Catholic schools. The response rate from Roman Catholic schools was 100 percent.

Data collected during the 1980-81 school year indicate that enrollment among Pennsylvania's nonpublic schools, which reached a peak in the 1963-64 school year, has continued to decline since then. Between the 1971-72 and 1980-81 school years a drop of 19.4 percent was reported for all nonpublic schools. This decrease is almost entirely attributable to the decline in Roman Catholic schools which lost 27.9 percent of their enrollment over the 10-year period.

As a point of interest, nonpublic school enrollment has declined 33.6 percent from the 1959-60 school year, which was the first year data were collected for this series of publications. The percent decline in enrollment from the peak year, 1963-64, is 37.9.

Although the overall statewide nonpublic school enrollment declined, the nonpublic proportion of the total public and nonpublic enrollment has remained at 17 percent of this total. In the 1971-72 school year 91.5 percent of the nonpublic elementary enrollment and 84.9 percent of the nonpublic secondary enrollment were educated in schools operated under the auspices of the Roman Catholic Church. These same percentages for the 1980-81 school year were 83.9 and 76.6 percent respectively. These figures reflect the increasing enrollment of other religious affiliated schools as well as the decline in Roman Catholic enrollment in the past ten years.

An examination of nonpublic school data for the period 1973-74 to 1980-81 will illustrate this point more clearly. The school year 1973-74 was the first year that more detailed data were available for nonsectarian and other-than-Catholic-religious-affiliated schools. Data for the 1973-74 school year show a nonsectarian enrollment total of 31,355 and an other-than-Catholic-religious-affiliated figure of 25,252. Respectively, the percentage figures of the total nonpublic enrollment were 7.1 and 5.7 percent. Similar data for the 1980-81 school year show the nonsectarian enrollment to be 30,967 or 7.9 percent. The nonsectarian enrollment, for all intents and purposes, has stabilized. In sharp contrast to nonsectarian and Roman Catholic enrollment changes, the other-than-Catholic-religious-affiliated schools have shown an 84.8 percent increase in enrollment during the same eight-year period.

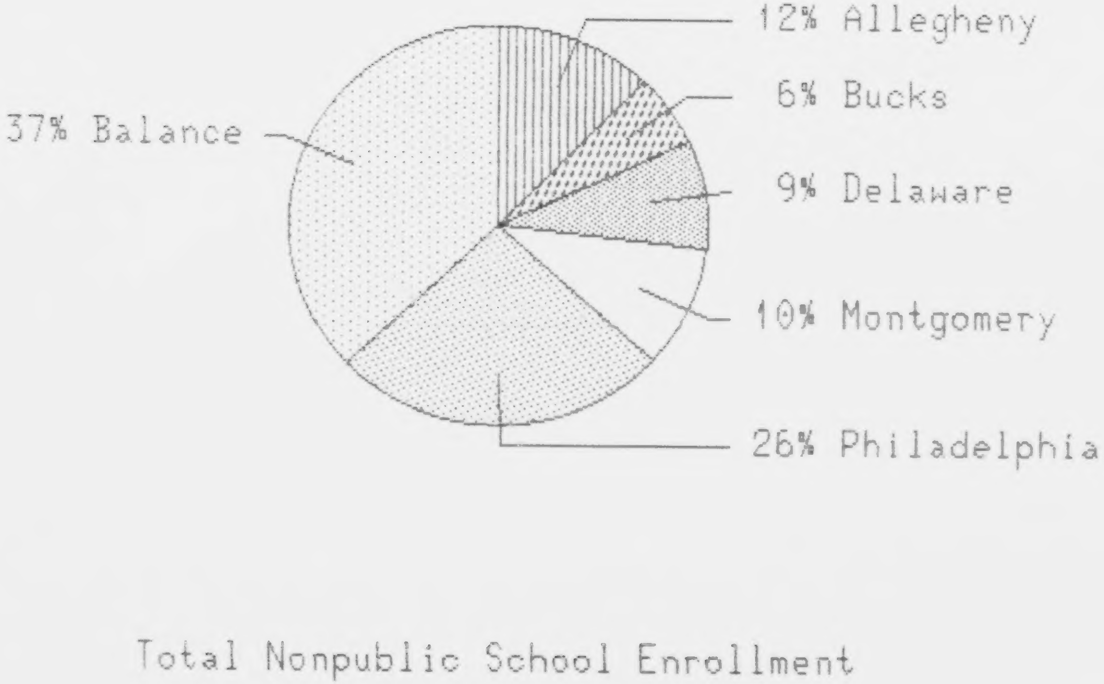
Percent Distribution Of Nonpublic School Enrollment Among the Five Counties Having the Largest Enrollment 1980-81



Clearly, two facts emerge from these data: (1) the decline in the total nonpublic school enrollment is attributable to the decline in enrollment in Roman Catholic schools; and (2) the decline in Roman Catholic enrollment completely obscured the growth of other-than-Catholic-religious-affiliated schools.

Another characteristic of Pennsylvania's nonpublic school enrollment is that it is largely located in metropolitan areas. Fully 62 percent of the total nonpublic school enrollment is located in the five metropolitan counties of Allegheny, Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia. Furthermore, each of these counties, except Allegheny, showed a higher ratio of nonpublic to public school enrollment than the one to six ratio for the state.

Since the 1971-72 school year the number of schools reporting data increased by 118 schools, while the number of teaching staff decreased by 869 teachers. The combination of these two statistics resulted in a pupil-teacher ratio of 19 to 1 as compared to 23 to 1 ten years ago. Also, the number of pupils-per-school was 223 as compared to 297 in 1971-72. In addition, the number of teachers-per-school was 11.5 compared to 13 teachers-per-school ten years ago. Each of these statistics is indicative of the changing compostion of the nonpublic school population.

PART II

TEACHERS AND PUPILS

During the 1980-81 school year 20,264.9 full-time-equivalent (FTE) teachers or 15.6 percent of the school teachers in Pennsylvania were employed in nonpublic schools. Two-thirds of the group were teaching in the elementary grades, and the remainder at the secondary level.

There were 13,170.2 FTE elementary-level teachers employed by nonpublic schools. Of this number 1,947.3 were in nonsectarian schools, 9,160.9 in Roman Catholic schools, and 2,062 in the remaining types of nonpublic schools.

There were 7,094.7 FTE secondary teachers in the nonpublic schools. Of these, 1,529.4 were in nonsectarian schools, 4,362.7 were in Roman Catholic schools and 1,202.6 in the remaining types of school.

The average elementary pupil-teacher ratio in nonpublic schools was 21.3. In nonsectarian schools the ratio was 9.3, while that in Catholic schools was 24.9, the second highest ratio for all types of nonpublic schools. The highest pupil-teacher ratio, 27.1, was in the Amish elementary schools. The nonsectarian ratio was the lowest elementary ratio.

At the secondary level, the overall pupil-teacher ratio in nonpublic schools was 15.8. The ratio was 8.5 in nonsectarian schools, while it was 19.7, over twice as high, in Roman Catholic schools. The lowest pupil-teacher ratio reported was by the Presbyterian schools.

PART III

NONPUBLIC HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATE DATA

The "Nonpublic Secondary School Report," Form DEAS-232 was the instrument used to collect data relative to nonpublic high school graduates. There were 24,188 nonpublic high school graduates in 1980. This figure was composed of 12,408 female and 11,780 male graduates. More than 60 percent of the female and 64 percent of the male graduates were reported as attending degree-granting institutions.

Independent colleges and universities attracted the largest number of nonpublic high school graduates reported as attending degree-granting institutions. Almost one-third of the graduates were attending these institutions. Another 21 percent of the college-bound graduates were attending colleges or universities outside Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Department of Education, an equal opportunity employer, will not discriminate in employment, educational programs or activities, based on race, sex, handicap, or because a person is a disabled veteran or a veteran of the Vietnam Era. This policy of non-discrimination extends to all other legally protected classifications. Publication of this policy in this document is in accordance with state and federal laws including Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 503 and 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

HIGHLIGHTS

The 1980-81 public school building data indicate that:

* Pennsylvania began the 1980-81 school term with 3,759 publicly owned school buildings.

* between September 1979 and September 1980, the total number of buildings in service decreased by 83; the number of available classrooms decreased by 731.

* 17 new buildings were opened in the fall of 1980; 16 buildings were reactivated; and 116 buildings were deactivated.

* the number of pupils housed in publicly owned school buildings decreased from 2,020,644 in the fall of 1979 to 1,942,472 in the fall of 1980, a decrease of 78,172 pupils.

* the pupil-classroom ratio, relative to the number of available classrooms, averaged 20.1 pupils per classroom.

* 90.1 percent of the 3,759 buildings in use were assigned a satisfactory rating and housed 1,832,071 or 94.3 percent of the total pupils housed.

* 2,158 or 57.4 percent of the buildings currently in use were constructed since the beginning of 1950.

* within the past year, the number of buildings located on sites of less than 25 acres decreased by 88, while those on sites of 25 or more acres increased by five.

* during 1980, bids were approved for the construction of eight new public school buildings at an average per pupil cost of $6,817, based on the total project cost minus the cost of acquiring the site.

* the primary energy source for heat in 1,430 or 38.1 percent of the buildings was oil; in 1,362 or 36.2 percent, gas; in 345 or 9.2 percent, electricity; in 309 or 8.2 percent, coal; and in 313 or 8.3 percent, a combination of sources.

FOREWORD

The series of publications entitled Our Schools Today is designed to provide statistical data and trends relating to basic education in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The "Public School Building Report" is Number 5 of Volume XX in this series. Other issues in the series, published either annually or biennially, provide data on public elementary and secondary education, transportation of students, nonpublic elementary and secondary education, public school professional personnel, and public school financial statistics.

Any inquiries relative to these publications, including suggestions for change, should be directed to the Division of Education Statistics, Bureau of Information Systems, Department of Education, 333 Market Street, P. O. Box 911, Harrisburg, PA 17108 (Phone 717-787-2644).

INTRODUCTION

The "Public School Building Report" is a statistical summary of the data collected relative to the Commonwealth's public school buildings that were in use during the 1980-81 school year. The scope of the data summarized includes such areas as instructional and general use rooms, service systems, type of construction, building age and rating, practical pupil capacity range, per pupil costs of new construction, and the number of elementary and secondary pupils housed. Presented chiefly in the form of tables, these building data are further supported through the use of trend tables, graphs, and interpretive narrative.

A school building, as defined for this study, is one continuous enclosed structure that may or may not be connected with other structures by passageways. This definition includes the structure itself, together with all the supporting mechanical, electrical, life safety, environmental, and other built-in systems and equipment attached to the structure. Indicative of the grade level of the pupils served, these buildings are classified as elementary, secondary, and combined. Elementary buildings are those that house or provide instructional space for pupils in grades kindergarten through 6; secondary buildings, grades 7 through 12; and combined buildings, both elementary and secondary pupils.

The reader should note that the term "pupils housed" indicates a utilization of housing space in publicly owned school buildings rather than an attempt to provide an inclusive, unduplicated enrollment count. Pupils who attend part-time area vocational-technical schools, for example, are counted as housed in the buildings of both the sending and receiving schools. On the other hand, those students who are enrolled in schools that occupy either rented or donated quarters--that is, in facilities that are not publicly owned--are not included in the state total for pupils housed.

PART I

BUILDINGS, CLASSROOMS AND PUPILS HOUSED

Public schools in Pennsylvania began the 1980-81 school term with 3,759 publicly owned school buildings. Numbering 83 fewer than the count for the preceding fall, these buildings contained 96,481 instructional rooms and provided the housing space for slightly more than 1.9 million public school children.

Seventeen new buildings, having a total of 404 instructional rooms and a collective practical pupil capacity of nearly 11,000, were opened for student use in September 1980. Eleven of the new buildings were designed to house elementary pupils, two of the secondary were constructed to accommodate area vocational-technical schools, and a combined building, housing grades 6 through 8, was erected for use as a middle school. Over the past 10 years, the number of new building openings each fall has declined at an average rate of eight buildings per year; that is, from 97 new buildings in 1970 to 17 in 1980.

In the one-year period prior to the beginning of the 1980-81 school year, 116 buildings were deactivated; while 16 buildings, previously deactivated, were reopened for student use. As indicated, not all buildings that are deactivated remain permanently closed. Some buildings are closed only temporarily for the purpose of extensive renovation; others are reopened on a short-term basis to satisfy a school district's need for provisional housing space. When projected over the past 10 years, available statistics showed that for every 7.7 buildings deactivated one was later reopened for student use.

The inclination in building size has been toward an increasingly greater proportion of buildings with more than 20 classrooms. In the fall of 1960, for example, 23.0 percent of the 4,947 buildings then on record had 21 or more classrooms. Twenty years later--with 1,188 fewer buildings but 22,846 more classrooms--greater than half or 53.3 percent of the public school buildings in the Commonwealth are reported to have more than 20 classrooms and house 77.8 percent of the total pupils housed. Such a decided trend, however, has not been entirely the result of new construction that favors the larger buildings, but has been accentuated by additions to already existing structures and the deactivation of the older and often smaller buildings. Within the past year, for example, there was a net decrease of 84 buildings having fewer than 21 classrooms, primarily the result of deactivations; while 11 of the 17 new building openings had 21 or more classrooms.

Following the completion date of the first perpetual school building inventory, October 1958, each updating of the inventory revealed successive annual increments in the number of available classrooms until the number peaked at a record high of 98,930 in the fall of 1975. Since this date, five annual decreases in the number of classrooms have been recorded placing the total for September 1980 at 96,481 classrooms. In comparing the number of available classrooms with the total number of pupils housed, the pupil-classroom ratio for the 1980-81 school term averaged 20.1 pupils per classroom. Pupils housed in elementary buildings averaged 19.7; secondary buildings, 21.1; and combined buildings, 18.4 per classroom.

A look at the construction dates of the Commonwealth's school buildings indicates that the decade most prominent for the number of school buildings constructed and still in use was the ten-year period 1950-59. In this decade alone, construction was completed on slightly more than one-fourth of the buildings currently in service. It is not surprising, however, that this spurt in building construction should follow the ten-year period (1940-49) that produced only 88 or 2.3 percent of the 3,759 buildings now in service.

Although public schools still made use of 106 buildings--the majority of which are elementary--that were constructed prior to 1900, the 2,158 buildings placed on record during the 30-year period 1950 through 1980 provided instructional space for 64.9 percent of the total pupils housed during the 1980-81 school term. When reflecting upon the ages and general condition of the state's public school buildings, the user of Table 4 should be aware that a significant portion of new construction, such as additions to buildings, appears under the date of original construction of the buildings to which the additions are attached. Capital outlay for additions to already existing structures, reported for fiscal periods 1970-71 through 1979-80, amounted to $351.8 million.

In determining the general condition of public school buildings, they were rated by local school administrators as "satisfactory," those able to continue in service for 20 or more years; "fair," those fit for 10 or 15 years of use with rehabilitation or remodeling; and "unsatisfactory," those buildings recommended for abandonment. In the fall of 1980, 3,385 or 90.1 percent of the 3,759 buildings in use were assigned a satisfactory rating and housed 1,832,071 or 94.3 percent of the total pupils housed. A fair rating was given to 325 or 8.6 percent of the buildings that housed 100,115 or 5.2 percent of the pupils. Forty-nine buildings, 43 of which were elementary, were rated unsatisfactory and housed 10,286 or 0.5 percent of the total pupils housed.

The trend in public school building construction, relative to the number of stories, has varied noticeably over the years. Elementary buildings constructed prior to 1940 and still in use were predominantly two-story buildings. However, by 1940 one-story elementary buildings became fashionable and remained so until the decade of the '70s when one- and two-story buildings were constructed in nearly equal number. In contrast, the tendency strongly favored constructing secondary buildings of three or more stories prior to 1930. But since that date, two-story secondary buildings were in the majority.

In summary, 2,364 or 62.9 percent of the 3,759 buildings in use were elementary, contained 41,330 or 42.8 percent of the classrooms and housed 814,553 or 41.9 percent of the total pupils housed; 964 or 25.6 percent were secondary buildings, contained 41,121 or 42.6 percent of the classrooms and housed 869,525 or 44.8 percent of the pupils; and 431 or 11.5 percent were combined buildings, contained 14,030 or 14.6 percent of the classrooms and housed 258,394 or 13.3 percent of the pupils.

PART II

BUILDING SERVICE SYSTEMS AND LAND SITES

In response to a growing national concern directed to the conservation and use of our limited energy supplies, a statewide inventory was first taken in the fall of 1977 to determine the primary energy source for heating the Commonwealth's public school buildings. A look at the current updating of this inventory revealed that oil and gas, which played nearly equal roles, were used to heat slightly less than three-fourths of the 3,759 buildings in use; that is, oil was the primary energy source used to heat 1,430 or 38.1 percent of the buildings and gas supplied the energy for 1,362 or 36.2 percent of the buildings. Coal was the source of energy for 309 or 8.2 percent of the buildings; 345 or 9.2 percent were heated electrically, and a combination of sources was used to heat 313 or 8.3 percent of the buildings.

Slightly more than one out of every six of the state's 96,481 classrooms had access to a central cooling system. The number of elementary classrooms having that special facility was 5,078; secondary, 7,899; and combined, 3,730.

In seeking approval for a school building site, one of the many factors to be considered, as outlined in the Department of Education "School Building Standards," is the size of the site selected. The areas of usable acreage considered most favorable for the accommodation of a comprehensive program range in a site size of 10 acres for elementary buildings to 35 acres for buildings involving various secondary programs. As the newly constructed buildings gradually replace the old, statistics indicated an emphasis toward these more expansive sites.

In the one-year period prior to the 1980-81 school term, 81 of the 116 buildings deactivated were located on sites of less than 10 acres; while 12 of the 17 new buildings opened in the fall of 1980 were constructed on sites ranging in size from 10 to 50 or more acres. Over the past 20 years, the proportion of school buildings located on sites of 10 or more acres has increased from 21.0 to 50.1 percent.

PART III

COST OF NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS

During the year 1980, bids were approved for the construction of eight new public school buildings--four elementary, two middle, and two junior-senior high schools. The average interest rate on these eight projects was calculated at 8.1 percent and the average amortization period, 18.6 years. Seven of the projects are to be financed through the sale of general obligation bonds and one through the State Public School Building Authority.

On the basis of the total project cost (less the cost of acquiring the site), the average per pupil cost on the eight projects was $6,817, ranging from a low of $4,578 for one of the elementary buildings to a high of $10,421 for a junior-senior high school building. The average cost per square foot, based on architectural area, was $66.80; but based on scheduled area, $104.06. Table 14 lists the individual projects and the per pupil costs from which these averages were derived.

Per pupil costs in this publication are expressed in two ways (1) by total structure cost, to which have been added the architect's fee, the cost of the sewage disposal system and the cost of rough grading to receive the building and (2) by the total project cost, less the cost of acquiring the site, such as land, title search, survey, attorney's fee, etc.

The per square foot costs are calculated on two bases (1) by architectural area, the sum of the areas of the several floors of the building, including basements, halls and intermediate floored tiers of headroom height, measured from the exterior faces of exterior walls and (2) by scheduled area, the total number of square feet shown on the approved final room schedule.

SELECTED DATA BY ADMINISTRATIVE UNIT

Table 15 lists some of the more frequently requested school building data for the various public school administrative units. Included in the total of pupils housed for each administrative unit are any elementary and secondary pupils housed in classrooms rented to or used by other administrative units, such as intermediate unit-operated classes. However, pupils quartered in facilities that are not publicly owned are not counted in this total. For convenience in reporting, the ages of school buildings are grouped into three construction periods: (1) prior to 1920, (2) 1920 through 1949, and (3) 1950 to present.

Table 16 is a distribution of buildings, classrooms, and pupils housed within each intermediate unit. As in Table 15, data relative to publicly owned facilities only are included.

The Pennsylvania Department of Education, an equal opportunity employer, will not discriminate in employment, educational programs or activities, based on race, sex, handicap, or because a person is a disabled veteran or a veteran of the Vietnam Era. This policy of non-discrimination extends to all other legally protected classifications. Publication of this policy in this document is in accordance with state and federal laws including Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 503 and 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

HIGHLIGHTS

The 1980-81 data indicate:

- a decrease of 1.1 percent in the total number of professional personnel from 129,927 in 1979-80 to 128,518.
- an increase of 8.7 percent in the average salary of all professional personnel from $17,237 in 1979-80 to $18,741.
- that the average salary of classroom teachers increased 8.9 percent from $16,517 in 1979-80 to $17,981.
- that 49.0 percent of the professional personnel held the bachelor's degree as the highest degree attained.
- that employees with 10 or fewer years of service decreased from 47.5 percent of the total staff in 1979-80 to 44.2 percent in 1980-81.
- that for various reasons 7,536 professional personnel did not return to Pennsylvania public schools at the start of the 1980-81 school year.

FOREWORD

The series of publications entitled Our Schools Today is designed to provide statistical data and trends relating to basic education in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The "Public School Professional Personnel Report" is Number 6 of Volume XX in this series. Other issues in the series, published either annually or biennially, provide data on public elementary and secondary education, transportation of students, nonpublic elementary and secondary education, public school buildings and public school financial statistics.

Any inquiries relative to these publications, including suggestions for change, should be directed to the Division of Education Statistics, Bureau of Information Systems, Department of Education, 333 Market Street, P.O. Box 911, Harrisburg, PA 17108 (Phone 717-787-2644).

INTRODUCTION

This report contains data on salaried personnel only. Data for employees paid on a per diem basis, interns and exchange teachers, to cite a few examples, are not included. The reader should keep in mind that information presented by position or major teaching assignment deals with people rather than positions. If an employee worked in more than one position or teaching assignment, the person was counted only in the position or teaching assignment in which a majority of his or her time was spent. In cases where the time was divided equally between two or more assignments, the chief school administrator selected one assignment. In all of the tables, other than Table 16 which deals specifically with part-time employment, all data are for personnel employed on a full-time basis in the schools.

The characteristics of the professional employees described throughout this report are as follows:

1. Salary
2. Position classification
3. Years of experience
4. Level of education
5. Sex
6. Race
7. Percent of time employed
8. Major teaching assignment
9. Age
10. Certification

In addition, characteristics not described in this report because of space limitations, but available in the Division of Education Statistics, include the following:

1. Number of periods of teaching
2. Minor teaching assignments
3. Number of persons supervised
4. Years certificates have been used
5. Areas of certification

In many of the tables in this report two or more variables have been presented. This was done in an effort to assist the reader in understanding the relationship among those significant items. For example, Table 2 reports average salaries of $18,834 for male secondary teachers and $17,580 for female secondary teachers. However, since salaries are based, in part, on years of service, Table 2 shows also that the average years of experience for male secondary teachers was 14.50 as compared with the 11.91 years for female secondary teachers. Some figures in Table 2 may vary due to rounding.

Because of reporting difficulties and because salary contracts had not been settled at the time the reports were submitted, 1979-80 salaries or 1979-80 salaries with mandated increments were reported for all or a portion of the employees in the school districts of Berwick Area, Chambersburg Area, Chester-Upland, Clearfield Area, Great Valley, Juniata Valley, Line Mountain, Lower Moreland Township, Mount Carmel Area, Schuylkill Valley, Southmoreland, Steel Valley, Union, Upper Dauphin Area and William Penn; the area vocational-technical schools of Bethlehem, Crawford County, Middle Bucks County, Mon Valley, North Fayette and Western; and the intermediate unit offices of Luzerne, Seneca Highlands and Westmoreland.

In analyzing the data relative to level of education, it must be noted that the figures are not synonymous with years of higher education, but are codes used in the project. However, these averages can be used for comparative purposes. The codes upon which the averages are based are as follows:

0.0	No college
1.0	One year of college
2.0	Two years of college
3.0	Three years of college
4.0	Bachelor's degree
5.0	Bachelor's degree plus one year
6.0	Master's degree
7.0	Master's degree plus one year
8.0	Master's degree plus two years
9.0	Doctor's degree
10.0	Doctor's degree plus one year

Other than Table 18, which gives selected data by administrative unit, all of the tables of data included in this report are state summaries. Additional aggregate data are available in the Division of Education Statistics.

It is hoped that this report will serve to provide useful feedback information to all school administrators in Pennsylvania for assistance in education planning and decision making.

Source: The information necessary to update the 1979-80 Professional Personnel Record, Form DEAS-614, was obtained on the Professional Personnel Record -- Change Report, 1980-81, Form DEAS-615; the Professional Personnel Record -- New Employee Report, 1980-81, Form DEAS-616; tapes and punched cards.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PROFESSIONAL PERSONNEL REPORT

The 128,518 full-time personnel employed in professional positions in the public schools of Pennsylvania at the beginning of the 1980-81 school year was a 1.1 percent decrease from the 129,927 employed in 1979-80; however, it was a 2.7 percent increase over the 125,144 employed in 1971-72. During this same 10-year period the public school enrollment showed a 19.5 percent decrease, falling from 2,370,665 in 1971-72 to 1,909,292 in 1980-81.[1] The staff per 1,000 enrollment rose from 52.8 in 1971-72 to 65.0 in 1980-81, while the pupil-teacher ratio declined from approximately 22:1 to 18:1 over the same period.[2]

Of the total staff, 6,410 were classified as administrative or supervisory personnel, 109,928 were classified as classroom teachers, 9,934 were coordinate services personnel and the position classifications of 2,246 were unknown. The percent each group is of the total staff is 5.0, 85.5, 7.7 and 1.8, respectively. These percents have varied very little over recent years as evidenced by the fact that the 85.5 percent for classroom teachers is only a 1.6 percent difference from the 87.1 percent figure in 1971-72.

As might be expected, the highest degree held by the major portion of the staff was the bachelor's degree with 49.0 percent of the staff holding such a degree. However, closing in on this group is the 47.5 percent of the staff that held the master's degree as the highest degree attained. The percent of the staff that held the doctor's degree increased slightly to 1.2.

The average years of service for all personnel was 13.04 years. This is a slight increase over the 12.61 average years of service reported the preceding year. The percent of employees with 10 or fewer years decreased from 47.5 percent of the total staff in 1979-80 to 44.2 percent in 1980-81.

The average salary of the total professional staff was $18,741, an increase of 8.7 percent over the 1979-80 figure of $17,237. The average salary of classroom teachers rose 8.9 percent from $16,517 in 1979-80 to $17,981 in 1980-81. Since salaries of certain administrators are based on the number of teachers supervised in addition to the level of education and years of service, additional salary data are presented for these administrators in Tables 11 through 15.

Table 18 gives the averages of selected characteristics for each administrative unit. The intermediate unit offices are listed first, followed by the administrative units in county order, each listed alphabetically. Also shown is the rank of each administrative unit among the 598 administrative units in the Commonwealth.

Retirement was the reason given by 25.6 percent of the 7,273 personnel who left the education profession permanently. In addition to this group of individuals, there were 263 employees who transferred to out-of-state school systems for a total of 7,536 employees who did not return to the Pennsylvania classroom at the start of the 1980-81 school year. Included in this figure are 469 who were furloughed because of decreases in enrollment and cuts in programs. An additional 719 persons transferred to other Pennsylvania school systems.
